Amy Sherman, Co-Founder of Courageous Loving (with her husband, Michael Sherman, writer and Personal Coach) will introduce you to a process that immediately engages new clients and deepens work with current clients. The Shermans have created a twist on core Relationship Therapy practices, offering an enhanced angle and a new tool for your therapeutic and marketing tool belt. The Courageous Loving Relationship Assessment, a process for Therapists and Counselors to take clients on a journey of growth and discovery, transforms a frustration in any relationship - personal or professional - into an opportunity for a profound shift into one's Higher Self. This instrument is applicable to individual clients, couple counseling clients, and group therapy clients.

This program is designed for those working or training in the mental health professions.

Amy Sherman, Licensed Marriage and Family Therapist, Certified Imago Relationship Therapist, earned her Masters degree in Family Systems Counseling at Bastyr University in Seattle, WA. She started practicing privately as Generation Counseling, in Nyack, NY in 2003, serving individuals, couples, families, and groups. Amy and her husband, Michael Sherman, Writer, Personal and Professional Life Coach, Certified Imago Educator, co-founded their company, Courageous Loving in 2007. Imago-based, and also drawing from the fields of Psychodrama, Recovery, Results-Oriented Self Development, Business and Financial Development, and weaving an open approach to Spirituality throughout, they offer Coaching and Counseling as well as Workshops and Multimedia Materials for Personal Growth and Relationship Training. All of their work is focused on helping people grow into answering the question: "Who are my relationships calling me to become?"
